

Hi,

I'm Rick Fowler, my wife Lori and I, recently had a new home built by Dave Schertzing of David G. Schertzing Builders, Inc. When we first met with Dave, we spoke with him about building a home we had seen while vacationing in South Haven, Michigan. Dave had many great plans for homes he had built through the years, but he understood that Lori and I had our hearts set on the design we had seen in South Haven. He contacted the builder of the South Haven home and arranged for the purchasing of the house plans. After making some slight changes and adjustments to fit our budget, he began to build our home on some land we had near Dimondale.

As always, issues seem to arise no matter how thorough you are. Dave was quick to contact us either by phone or email and offered suggestions and solutions he had gleaned from his many years of building experience. He continually stayed on top of the many project decisions.

Lori and my biggest challenge concerning the project, was in making the needed decisions and getting the items that we were to do, completed in a timely fashion. With Dave at the helm (you see we're boaters), the house was completed on time and has met or surpassed our hopes. We are honored with the many compliments we have received since its completion. Lori and I had lived in our previous home for 25 years and never thought we could call another place home so quickly.

Dave's approach is very personable and practical, and he offers a great balance between his responsibility as a builder and his humor. (Spend a few moments with him before you choose a builder and you'll understand.) We believe your project with him will leave you with the same positive experience.

Lori and I would recommend Dave's services to anyone whether you're looking to finish off a basement, remodel your existing home, or like us, build a new one.
