We are writing to sing the praises of Dave Schertzing.

In early 2016 we decided to Remodel our Kitchen. We explored and interviewed several contactors. After careful study, we decided to go with Dave Schertzing as our general contractor. We could not be more pleased. Best decision we ever made!

Dave is a knowledgeable, efficient, pay- attention- to- detail, honest, trustworthy, patient guy. From start to finish, he was on time, on schedule and on task. He was very clear and accurate about what would be involved. He never “over sold” or misrepresented a situation. He was clear about the disruption we would experience, the time it would take and the decisions and choices we would be faced with along the way. He took our needs and desires into account every step of the way and, without exception, made sure they were addressed. He’s a great listener.

Every single one of Dave’s subcontractors was courteous, professional, on time, polite, neat and clean. They always left our house just the way they found it. They tackled their projects with a no-nonsense, “we mean business” approach and stuck with the project until they got it done— and done right. We found the exact same characteristics in each of his subcontractors as we do in Dave.

We are absolutely amazed at the numerous “little” suggestions Dave made along the way to improve and enhance our Kitchen Remodel that we never would have thought of. He consistently paid attention to the “little” details which, in the end, made a huge difference and resulted in our complete and total satisfaction. He always made sure everything was just right.

Dave never got flustered. No matter how many times we approached him with “just one more new idea” or a “slight change in plans” he never blinked. He always says “we’ll figure it out. We’ll make it happen”. (In fact, my wife hinted that I might want to take a page out of Dave’s book the next time she approaches me with an idea or suggestion. I have to admit, I got to a point where I was a little tired of hearing her tell me and everyone else “how Great Dave is 😊)

We recommend Dave Schertzing, without reservation, for any home project or build job you may be considering. There’s nobody better! There’s nobody more qualified! He’s a perfectionist!
