

Our Testimonial:

When our family began searching for someone to assist us with a master bathroom renovation project, a colleague highly recommended Dave Schertzing. We knew after the first meeting Dave was the guy. We generally had an idea of what that first project would entail, and Dave took those ideas and made them happen. Dave listened to our needs and wants, and the renovation turned out beautifully. We were so impressed with the work, that we hired him again TWICE for renovations on other areas of our home.

In addition to our master bathroom, Dave helped us with a dormer addition over the garage, adding a new bedroom for our child and a new work-at-home office for us. Our friends and family all have commented on how impressed they are with the work, and how the projects turned out. And while we can all see the quality of Dave's work, what is most impressive to us is how we got there.

Like most home renovation projects, there is usually something that will unexpectedly pop up and create challenges. What sets Dave apart is how issues are handled. It seems with many other builders you unfortunately get "sorry." With Dave, you get solutions. For us on the master bathroom renovation, it was the location of the old plumbing lines. Dave worked with us and helped us find us a solution that both worked functionally and did not impact the aesthetics or overall cost estimate. Dave went above and beyond and helped us get through those unexpected challenges.

Finally, Dave did the little things to make the renovation project less impactful to our family during the construction. Tarps were in place to minimize dust. Timelines were given when workers would be there. And most importantly, our needs were both listened to, and addressed. With Dave, the high quality isn't just the finished product... but the quality of the journey in getting there.

We feel so fortunate to have worked with Dave. When we had questions, Dave provided quick answers. When we needed suggestions, Dave knew what to do and who to ask. And when we needed a quality renovation of the master bathroom, a new bedroom for our kid, a work-from-home office, and a way to improve our home's aesthetics,... Dave delivered. We cannot recommend Dave enough.
